SPECIALTY CERTIFICATION FOR CORRECTIONAL HEALTH CARE REGISTERED NURSES

Professional Recognition

CCHP-RN certification makes a difference—to the patients whose care is provided by certified correctional nurses, to employers who desire top-notch nurses on staff and to the nurses who attain the credential. Certification for registered nurses recognizes CCHPs who have demonstrated the knowledge required to deliver specialized nursing care to incarcerated populations. Correctional nurses are on the front lines of providing health care. Achieving the CCHP-RN shows that correctional nurses are an elite cadre of professionals who have chosen to practice in a demanding environment, and it helps support correctional nursing as a specialty.

Purpose

The purpose of the CCHP-RN specialty examination is to measure a candidate's knowledge, understanding and application of national standards and guidelines essential to the delivery of appropriate nursing care, legal principles for practicing within a correctional health care system, ethical obligations of correctional nurses and the role of nurses in delivering health care in the correctional environment.

Eligibility

Prior to submitting an application, applicants must have:

- Current CCHP certification
- Current, active RN license within a U.S. state (for Canada and U.S. territories, credentials will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis); the license must not be restricted to practice in correctional settings only
- Equivalent of two years full-time practice as a registered nurse
- 2,000 hours of practice in a correctional setting within the last three years
